An individual research task is a type of research work of a student of education, which contains the results of a research search, reflects a certain level of his educational competence.

Completion of the IND in the Workbook “Legal Foundations of Civil Society” for applicants of non-legal specialties, which contributes to the in-depth study of the subject by applicants and is one of the important forms of testing their knowledge and is evaluated by the teacher individually. The goal of the research task: independent study of part of the program material, systematization, generalization, consolidation and practical application of theoretical knowledge from AC, improvement of skills of independent research activity. Type – participation in an all-Ukrainian or international conference and publication of theses.

Criteria for Evaluation of the IND:

- _ clarity, validity of the selection of scientific material, relevance and practical significance of the topic, availability of independent scientific results and conclusions;
- _ creative approach to the fulfillment of the IND;
- _ quality of design.

IV. EVALUATION POLICY

Forming lecture material and practical tasks, the teacher creates conditions for the most effective assimilation of knowledge by the student in the framework of the proposed educational component. Achieving the corresponding goal serves, in particular, the determination of those questions that, according to the level of complexity, can be studied by the applicant as part of self-training.

At the same time, during the presentation of the academic component, the teacher uses modern scientific methods, aimed, among other things, at the development of students' critical thinking and the ability to independently analyse the circumstances of legal reality and give them an assessment from the point of view of the provisions of the current legislation of Ukraine and the norms of international law.

Attending lectures and practical classes by the student is designed to ensure that he obtains concentrated knowledge, which is achieved, including by direct participation in the discussion of the relevant topic, as well as by asking the teacher with questions in order to specify certain aspects of the subject of consideration. Along with this, to provide the educational component, the teacher uses modern technologies, in particular, cloud services and educational platforms, which creates opportunities for independent and effective assimilation by the student of the proposed material within the framework of the elements of the structure of the educational component. In this regard, unless otherwise established by the provisions of the University's regulatory and legal documents, a student who missed a lecture or practical session can study the relevant material independently and pass a knowledge test using the appropriate electronic services or pass a knowledge test on one of practical classroom classes. In addition, if necessary, the student can attend a consultation on a specific topic to fill gaps in knowledge.

Policy of academic integrity

Observance of academic integrity by pedagogical, scientific-pedagogical and scientific workers involves:

- references to sources of information in case of use of ideas, developments, statements, information;
- compliance with the legislation on copyright and related rights;
- provision of reliable information about research methods and results, sources of used information and own pedagogical (scientific-pedagogical, creative) activity;
- control over compliance with academic integrity by education seekers;
- objective assessment of learning outcomes.

Observance of academic integrity by students of education involves:

- independent performance of educational tasks, tasks of current and final control of learning results (for persons with special educational needs, this requirement is applied taking into account their individual needs and capabilities);

– references to sources of information in case of use of ideas, developments, statements, information;

- compliance with the legislation on copyright and related rights;
- provision of reliable information about the results of one's own educational (scientific, creative) activities, used research methods and sources of information.

Violation of academic integrity is considered:

academic plagiarism – publicizing (partially or fully) scientific (creative) results obtained by other persons as the results of one's own research (creativity) and/or reproduction of published texts (publicized works of art) of other authors without indicating authorship;

self-plagiarism – publishing (partially or completely) one's own previously published scientific results as new scientific results;

fabrication – fabrication of data or facts used in the educational process or scientific research;

falsification – a deliberate change or modification of already available data related to the educational process or scientific research;

write-off – performance of written works involving external sources of information other than those permitted for use, in particular during the evaluation of learning outcomes;

deception - provision of knowingly false information about one's own educational (scientific, creative) activity or organization of the educational process; forms of cheating are, in particular, academic plagiarism, self-plagiarism, fabrication, falsification and plagiarism;

bribery - giving (receiving) by a participant in the educational process or an offer to provide (receiving) funds, property, services, benefits or any other benefits of a material or non-material nature in order to obtain an undue advantage in the educational process;

biased assessment – deliberate overestimation or underestimation of the learning outcomes of education seekers;

providing assistance to students during their assessment of learning outcomes or creating obstacles not provided for by the conditions and/or procedures of such an assessment;

influence in any form (request, persuasion, instruction, threat, coercion, etc.) on a pedagogical (scientific-pedagogical) worker in order to make him biasedly evaluate the results of education.

Deadlines and Rescheduling Policy

Current control over the topics of the educational component is carried out within the framework of practical classes held according to the schedule.

The learner has the right to retake the current control of the subject only once.

If the topic requires the student to give an oral answer to the issues of the topic plan, as well as solving a legal problem, the student has the right to retake the part (parts) of the tasks for which he received points below the maximum.

The highest result obtained by the student based on the results of completing the relevant part of the tasks or their re-completion is counted.

Liquidation of academic debt is carried out centrally for all students at the time determined by the teacher before the date set for retaking the exam ("first, second and third information").

V. FINAL CONTROL

The final control is carried out in the form of a credit, which consists in assessing the learner's assimilation of educational material from the educational component based on the results of all types of planned educational work during the semester: classroom work during lectures, practical (seminar, individual), laboratory classes (etc.) independent work, execution of IND, final control works, etc.

Modular control works are not planned or carried out.

The teacher assigns a grade based on the results of the current work, provided that the student has completed the types of educational work defined by the syllabus (program) of the educational component. The minimum number of positive points is 60.

If the student did not attend individual classroom classes (for good reasons), he has the right to work through the missed classes and get the number of points that were determined for the missed topics at the consultations. On the date of the assessment, the teacher records in the report the sum of the current points that the student of education gained during the current work (scale from 0 to 100 points).

In the event that the learner scored less than 60 points, he makes a credit during the liquidation of academic debt by performing a complex control task in the form of tests. In this case, the points scored during the current assessment are cancelled. The maximum number of points during the liquidation of academic debt from credit is 100.

Repeated assessment of the educational component is allowed no more than two times: once by the teacher, the second time by the commission created by the dean (director) of the faculty (institute).

Assessment takes place during the assessment and examination session provided for in the curriculum, in accordance with the approved schedule of the educational process and schedule.
