

Educational component	Elective educational component 5.1 «Demographic and Migration Processes in International Relations»
Level HE	First (bachelor) level
Name of specialty / educational-professional program	291 «International Relations, Public Communications and Regional Studies» / «International Relations»
Form of study	Full-time
Course, semester, duration	3 year, 6 semester, 5 credits
Semester control	Credit
Number of hours (total: including lectures / practical)	150 hours (10 lectures, 20 practical)
Language of instruction	English
Department that provides teaching	Department of International Relations and Regional Studies
Author of the Educational component	PhD in Economic Sciences, Associate Professor, Iloná Balak
Brief description
Requirements for the beginning of the study	Striving for self-development; basic skills of modern educational and information communications; understanding the need to develop international relations; awareness of the importance of logistics for the economic development of the state in general and the border region in particular.
What will be studied	Features of the functioning of Demography and migration processes in the modern international relations.
Why it is interesting / necessary to study	Covers the theoretical foundations of the study of Demography, the use of competitive advantages of the state, region, including border. Investigates the leading trends and key challenges for the migration processes at the international, national and regional levels. Reveals the features of the world demographic processes. Highlights the opportunities for Ukraine and its regions to participate in international migration processes.
Why you can learn (learning results)	The applicant will be able to: - know the nature and peculiarities of the countries and regions interaction at the global, regional and local levels of logistics systems; - understand and defend the national interests of Ukraine and its regions in international logistics; - know the nature and mechanisms of international communications in the field of logistics.
How to use the acquired knowledge and skills (competencies)	The applicant obtains the ability to: - work in the international context in the field of logistics; - search, process and analyze of information from various sources to solve problems; - use information and communication technologies for the development of international logistics; - generate new ideas (creativity) in the market of logistics services; - apply knowledge in practical situations that arise in the global logistics system.