Elective educational component 6.2 «Logistics in international relations»
First (bachelor) level 291 «International Relations, Public Communications and Regional Studies» / «International Relations»
Full-time
3d year, 5th semester, 5 credits
Credit
150 hours (10 lectures, 20 practical)
English Department of International Relations and Regional Studies
PhD in Economic Sciences, Associate Professor, Ilona Balak
Brief description Striving for self-development; basic skills of modern educational and information communications; understanding the need to develop international relations; awareness of the importance of logistics for the economic development of the state in general and the border region in particular.
Features of the functioning of logistics in modern international relations Covers the theoretical foundations of the study of international markets for goods and services, the use of competitive advantages of the state, region, including border. Investigates the leading trends and key challenges for the functioning of logistics systems at the international, national and regional levels. Reveals the features of the world market of logistics services: transport, expeditionary, warehousing, accompanying information. Highlights the opportunities for Ukraine and its regions to participate in international logistics.  The applicant will be able to:
- know the nature and peculiarities of the countries and regions interaction at the global, regional and local levels of logistics systems;
- understand and defend the national interests of Ukraine and its regions in international logistics;
- know the nature and mechanisms of international communications in the field of logistics.
The applicant obtains the ability to:
- work in the international context in the field of logistics;
- search, process and analyze of information from various sources to solve problems;
- use information and communication technologies for the development of international logistics; development of international logistics; - generate new ideas (creativity) in the market of logistics services;
•